

Creativity and Communication: Roundtable Discussion

YWCA Metropolitan Chicago will be hosting a roundtable discussion for females who identify as Women of Color, who have experienced sexual violence and want to explore the impact of racism and prejudice in their lives. This is a safe, supportive space where you can join others as we build a sense of community.

- Discuss how the socioeconomic and political climate has impacted self-image
- Identify systems of oppression
- Learn about the role of generational/familial values
- Explore what roles and responsibilities you undertake to secure or create a positive self-regard

Speak Freely.
Speak Volumes!

The roundtable is intended to create an open, respectful, and welcoming space for women of color to share stories of how sexual violence, racism, oppression, and prejudice influence day to day movement.

Participants will be encouraged to share ideas and empower each other through connection, solidarity, compassion, and altruism.
